GRANITE CITY — A pleasant
drive or a mild spring night brought a 33-year-old Granite City man face-to-gun barrel with a highway sniper.
The man reported to Granite City police that, he was shot at twice while riding his motorcycle in the 2800 block of Foatoon Road about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Still shaken Wednesday morning by the driver of a pick-up truck, the man asked not to be identified.

Annual flush planned

Illinois-American Water Co. will flush the water distribution system in Granite City and the adjacent Madison County area starting Monday, April 4.

Fire hydrants are operated in the spring each year to improve water quality by flushing accu-nulated mineral deposits from the water mains. During this operational activity, customers may experience cloudy water. Running the water for a short time will clear it up, company officials said.

The company does not recommend drinking the cloudy water, but there is no indication that it would be harmful if consumed.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED Attorney At Law

When a divorced woman remarries, she will sametimes wish to change her child's name from that of the father to that of the step-father. A mother may seek this name change for her child because the child finds it emborasely to have a different leat name than his mother. The question frequently arise as the control of the child because the name than his mother. The question frequently arise as the control of the change in the section of the child. The relevant factors to be used in determining the best interest of the child include the wishes of the parents, the wishes of the child. The relevant factors to be used in determining the best interest of the child include the wishes of the parents, the wishes of the child, the interaction and interrelationship of the child with his or her parents, and the child's adjustment to his or her home, school and community.

In one recent case in 1936, the mother was oversided custody of their daughter, and four years later she remarried. In 1987 the mother petitioned the court on behalf of her daughter to have the daughter's last name changed to that of the stepfather. The girl was 12 years old at the time her mother instituted these proceedings, and her natural father vigorously opposed the name change.

opposed the name change.

At the hearing, the 12-year-old girl testified that she wanted to change her last name so that she could have the same last name as her stepbrathers. She also testified that she loved her stepbrather and that she desired to have his last name. She told the judge that she had been thinking about changing her name for almost two years. The trial court granted the petition for change of name based primarily on the expressed preference of the 12-year-old girl.

The natural father appealed the decision. The Appellate Court affirmed the decision of the trial court, indicating the there was no evidence that the child was coerced into seeking a name change. The Court noted that the child was 12 years old at the time of the hearing, and her desire to change her name was apparently a product of years of thought on her part.

District fighting bad fight

The American Civil Liberties Union will likely whip up on the District 9 Board of Education in a coming fight in court, but all Granite City will be the loser. District 9's one argument that differs from other cases of discrimination against students with AIDS is that 7-year-old Jason Robertson has been designated a "special education" student. It is unlikely the court will accept the argument.

unlikely the court will accept the argument.

Consider these as possible points District 9 might bring before a judge in an attempt (at taxpayers' expense) to keep Jean aut of school: on out of school:

Jason out of school:

Jason has some learning problems. If so, the opposition could counter that any student who misses too much school or fails a class is kept behind for a year,
not segregated. Since Jason does not have a low IQ, if he is behind the problem may be at the schoolhouse door, an ACLU attorney might say.

Jason is socially behind. If the board had reason to take such a position, it would have to consider that anyone not attending school with other students is not going to know how to deal with them. School would be a solution. Jason is a hemophiliae. He sometimes bleeds — internally. If the district used hemophilia as an argument, a court would basically have to agree to rule all hemophiliaes should be segregated. That won't happen. Jason has the AIDS virus. The district shouldn't try to use that as an argument. Even the board knows there is no sound legal or medical basis for AIDS to keep Jason out of school.

Fighting Jason's entry into a

Jason out of school.
Fighting Jason's entry into a normal classroom will almost surely mean District 9 will face another media barrage, especially since the story of the district's segregated school for Jason achieved international headlines. The next round of reporting will probably portray Granite City as backward and uncaring, and it is something this city does not need. For the common good, District

Update on downtown provided

To the editor:

Lately people have been asking,

"What is going on with the downtown development?" Certainly things have been rather quiet over the last several months, but this lack of publicity is not indicative of a lack of progress.

Early last year the city formed a public/private partnership with Development Control Corp., a developer of shopping centers throughout the midwest. They proposed to build a shopping

Major tenants move very cautiously on downtown sites because of the many things that can go wrong along the way. This is certainly understandable. Few cities have been able to revitalize their central business districts. Even in our own town, we can look back to four separate attempts, over a span of 20 years, that ultimately failed.

A downtown shopping center is only the beginning. It is a catalyst which will spark a wide-spread revitalization of the downtown area and the city in general. That is why it is so important and that is why the effort continues.

Fall races could be close

It is still early in the final phase of the 1988 election pro-cess, but primary results indicate competition Nov. 8 could be close for many offices.

for many offices.

Democrats far outdistanced
Republicans here and statewide in the number of ballots cast by voters March 15. This is partly due to registered Democrats being in the majority, but also due to this party's tradition of fierce primary rivalry. Republicans tend to choose nomines more quietly but then conduct
spirited fall campaigns.

An example is the judicial are-

spirited fall campaigns.

An example is the judicial arena, in which Madison County residents will help elect seven justices and judges. Republicans had no primary clashes but are poised to seek November victories, especially for the Illinois Supreme Court and four appellate positions in the 5th Judicial District (37 southern counties around Mount Vernon).

Influencing the outcome of some of the races will be the extent to which the presidential election brings large turnouts for the two major parties. Republicans apparently will be seeking to send Vice President George Bush to the White House, but it is still uncertain who will be the Democratic nominee. This battle in Illinois not only could decide the national winner, as it did in 1900, but also could provide coattails that aid candidates for regional offices. Among those helped might be Republican Robert Gaffner, who came close to capturing the 21st District congressional post two years ago.

If voters note their lack of a voice on state offices this year, it is no accident. Illinois made a joint of separating its balloting from the presidential years, and it is for this reason that the first of Gov. James Thompson's four terms lasted two years only,
from 1976 to 1978.

Although there is no governor election this year, inclusion of Thompson on the national Republican ticket theoretically could create a vacancy, enabling Lt.
Gov. George Ryan to move up.
That occurrence would give Ryan an edge in 1990, complicating the aspirations of both Secretary of State Jim Edgar (R) and Attorney General Neil Hartigan (D).

Blood donations, contributions of time, and generous financial support are needed locally and throughout the country, in accord with the 1988 Red Cross theme of serving mankind "until there is no loneliness, no destitution, no sickness, no war..."

Wants support for boy with AIDS virus To the editor:

To the editor:

All the information I've read about AIDS, including the article in—the March 16 Granite City Journal entitled, 'Don't Panic about AIDS, Know Facts About It,' stresses that the disease shakes, public toilets or living in the same house.

The plight of Tammy and Jason Robertson is troubling to me. We were so proud of the Granite City school system last November when the trailer room at could attend school.

Now Mrs. Robertson wants Jason to attend school with other children as reported in the March 16 GCJ. The last paragraph of that article especially stuck in my mind: "Students are being taught that casual contact with a person with AIDS is not dangerous, but see Jason in a separate class and do not associate with him."

An article in the March 4 St. Louis Post-Dispatch related the story of Ryan White, a hemophiliac, with circumstances similar to Jason's. His AIDS was diagnosed when he was 13-yearsold and surgery was performed to make the seed of the seed

Does your life seem out of ontrol? Then you are in good company.

A lot of people look at their lives and shudder. Your housework the work at the office, the children, your marriage, everything seems out of control. And there are times when you feel you could explode on the inside. You feel out of control too.

But everything is not out of ontrol. In fact, nothing is out of ontrol.

control. In fact, meaning control.

Why? Because the living God is in control. He really is! Listen to what he says, "I am the Lord, and there is no other, the one forming light and creating darkness, causing well-being and creating calamity; I am the Lord who does all these things." (Is also in the same and the sam

Trojans routed in season opener by Dupo

DUPO — The Trojan baseball season got off to a rocky start Wednesday when Madison lost 25-1 to the Dupo Tigers in the season opener for both teams.

Bupo reached starter Corin Blockton for three hits and seven runs in the first inning. Blockton data walked three in the first inning and struck out one.

"Clarence williams and Jason

Briggs are probably my top pitchers, but our defense in the outfield suffers when I bring them in," said coach Marcus Spraggins, starting his third year The Trojan defense didn't lend much support to Blockton against the Tigers. In the first inning alone, first baseman Ter-ry Jackson and second baseman Robbie Poston botched a run-down play after a Dupo runner was caught off first; the outfield let two balls drop in for hits; and a wild relay throw from Poston allowed a run to come in. "They just outshot us today," Spraggins said. "But if we work her dimetrive. The kide can hit the ball and we should score

$500 CASH BACK. AND NO PAYMENTS UNTIL JUNE.

New GMAC financing gives you almost three months before your first payment.

And you can even use your $500 cash back toward your down payment. Don't wait. This offer is limited. So see your Chevy dealer this week. It's the easiest way yet to own a new Chevy truck. Qualified buyers must take retail delivery out of dealer stock.

Finance charges accrue from date of purchase. Deferral of payment is not available in connection with other GMAC programs or in Michigan or Pennsylvania, or on vehicles with a cash selling price of $10,000 or less in New Jersey. See your participating dealer for details.

Get $500 cash back on new full-size C/K Chevy pickups already priced less than Ford.*

You must take actual retail delivery out of dealer stock by March 31, 1988. See your dealer for details.
